

This revised and enlarged edition of the leading anthology provides the essential writings of Marx and Engels—those works necessary for an introduction to Marxist thought and ideology. Among the major features of the revision are selections from the "Contribution to the Critique of Hegel's Philosophy of Right," additional selections from the Economic and Philosophic Manuscripts of 1844 and other early Marx writings, the Grundrisse (more than any competing text), and additions to Capital and other late writings by both Marx and Engels.

The volume is so arranged as to show both the chronological and the thematic development of the two great thinkers. Selections range in coverage from history, society, and economics, to politics, philosophy, and the strategy and tactics of social revolution. Each selection is introduced by Professor Tucker and, where possible, is presented in its entirety.

Part I presents the writings of the young Marx, the works which have aroused so much interest and caused so much debate in recent years. Part II includes works critical of capitalism. In Part III are the works which outline the program, strategy, and tactics of the revolutionary movement. Part IV includes writings on society and politics in the nineteenth century, not only European but Asian and Russian as well. The concluding section, Part V, presents the later writings of Engels, in which Marxism was popularized and systematized for the benefit of the masses.

The Marx-Engels Reader contains an interpretive general introduction that traces and analyzes the development of Marxist philosophy; headnotes to each selection; a full chronology of major events in the lives of Marx and Engels; a note on texts and terminology (new in this edition); and an index.
